

Quotes on Ships and the Sea

Mankind's Wisdom on Seafaring from Christopher Columbus to
Captain Jack Sparrow

Quotes on Ships and the Sea

Compiled by Patty Crowe Edited by Jonathan Crowe

*Richer Resources Publications
Arlington, VA*

Copyright © 2008
Richer Resources Publications
All Rights Reserved

No part of this book or the artwork it contains may be reproduced in any form except for the inclusion of brief quotations in review without the express permission in writing from the publisher.

*Reprint requests and requests for additional copies of this book can be addressed to Richer Resources Publications
Arlington, Virginia 22207 or via our website at: www.RicherResourcesPublications.com*

ISBN 978-0-9818162-7-2 soft cover
ISBN 978-1-935238-83-6 hard cover

Printed in India by Fine Grains
New Delhi 110019 India

For Sailors and Seafarers

Following the light of the sun, we left the Old World.

Christopher Columbus

Who is staring at the sea is already sailing a little.

Paul Carvel

If you want to build a ship, don't drum up the men to gather wood, divide the work, and give orders.

Instead, teach them to yearn for the vast and endless sea.

Antoine de Saint-Exupéry

There is nothing more enticing, disenchanting, and enslaving than the life at sea.

Joseph Conrad

There is little man has made that approaches anything in nature, but a sailing ship does.

There is not much man has made that calls all the best in him, but a sailing ship does.

Allan Villiers

*This was the first time that I had seen a sail at sea.
I thought then, and have always since, that no sight exceeds it in interest, and few in beauty.*

Richard Henry Dana

*Ships are the nearest things to dreams
that hands have ever made.*

Robert N. Rose

You can't change the wind, you can, however, adjust your sails.

Unknown

The goal is not to sail the boat, but rather to help the boat sail herself.

John Rousmaniere

It's out there that you are really yourself.

Vito Dumas

It is not the ship so much as the skillful sailor that assures the prosperous voyage.

George William Curtis

Hoist your sail when the wind is fair.

Proverb

We have ploughed the vast ocean in a fragile bark.

Ovid

The cure for anything is saltwater — sweat, tears, or the sea.

Isak Dinesen

*Spirits rise as the sails fill...
Gone is the sea's glassy surface, and with it the terrible glare.
Close the hatches and ports!
We're sailing again!*

Jim Moore

The cabin of a small yacht is truly a wonderful thing; not only will it shelter you from a tempest, but from the other troubles in life, it is a safe retreat.

L. Francist Herreshoff

*I find the great thing in this world is not so much where we stand, as in what direction we are moving
- we must sail sometimes with the wind and sometimes against it - but we must sail, and not drift, nor lie at anchor.*

Oliver Wendell Holmes, Jr.

*They come! Ships call!
The hooves of night, the horses of the sea come on below their manes of darkness.
And forever the river runs.
Deep as the tides of time and memory, deep as the tides of sleep, the river runs.*

Thomas Wolfe

A ship in the harbor is safe, but that's not what ships are built for.

William Shedd

...their chief beauty and grandeur — slow, stately motion, the whirling of the snow about their summits and the fearful groaning cracking of their parts...this is the iceberg, — while the small and distant islands, floating on the smooth sea, in the light of a clear day, look like little floating isles of sapphire.

Richard Henry Dana

*She sent him a warm and gentle wind, and Lord Odysseus was happy as he set his sails to catch the breeze.
He sat beside the steering oar and used his skill to steer the raft.*

Homer

*There is nothing like lying flat on your back on the deck, alone except for the helmsman aft at the wheel, silence except for the lapping of the sea against the side of the ship.
At that time you can be equal to Ulysses and brother to him.*

Errol Flynn

*To desire nothing beyond what you have is surely happiness. Aboard a boat, it is frequently possible to achieve just that. That is why sailing is a way of life, one of the finest of lives.
Carleton Mitchell*

In what rapt ether sails the world, of which the weariest will never weary?

Herman Melville

*Wouldst thou,"--so the helmsman answered,
"Learn the secret of the sea?
Only those who brave its dangers Comprehend its mystery!"
Henry Wadsworth Longfellow*

The sea is certainly common to all.

Titus Maccius Plautus

There is nothing - absolutely nothing - half so much worth doing as simply messing about in boats.

Kenneth Grahame

The clouds were building up now for the trade wind and he looked ahead and saw a flight of wild ducks etching themselves against the sky over the water, then blurring, then etching again and he knew no man was ever alone on the sea.

Ernest Hemingway

*Thus, I steer my bark, and sail
On even keel, with gentle gale.*

Matthew Green

There is, one knows not what sweet mystery about this sea, whose gently awful stirrings seems to speak of some hidden soul beneath...

Herman Melville

A sailor is an artist whose medium is the wind.

Webb Chiles

It's remarkable how quickly a good and favorable wind can sweep away the maddening frustrations of shore living.

Ernest K. Gann

*Behold the threaden sails,
Borne with the invisible and creeping wind,
Draw the huge bottoms through the furrow'd sea,
Breasting the lofty surge*

William Shakespeare

*Once more upon the waters! Yet once more!
And the waves bound beneath me as a steed
That knows his rider.*

Lord Byron

*The pessimist complains about the wind;
the optimist expects it to change;
the realist adjusts the sails.*

William Arthur Ward

It isn't that life ashore is distasteful to me.
But life at sea is better.

Sir Francis Drake

I wanted freedom, open air and adventure.
I found it on the sea.

Alaine Gerbault

If one does not know to which port one is sailing no wind is favorable.

Seneca

The thing I realized this last few days is that the earth is a big place.

Paul Cayard

Never a ship sails out of a bay, but carries my heart as a stowaway.

Roselle Mercier Montgomery

Our voyage had commenced, and at last we were away, gliding through the clean water past the reeds. Care was lifted from our shoulders, for we were free from advice, pessimism, officialism, heat and hot air.

Adlard Coles

*The land is dearer for the sea,
The ocean for the shore.*

Lucy Laboom

*The night comes stealing o'er me,
And clouds are on the sea;
While the wavelets rustle before me
With a mystical melody.*

Heinrich Heine

*The ocean old, Centuries old,
Strong as youth, and as uncontrolled,
Paces restless to and fro
Up and down the sands of gold.*

Henry Wadsworth Longfellow

There are some things you learn best in calm, and some in storm.

Willa Cather

*...there was a grandeur in everything around which gave a solemnity to the scene, a silence and solitariness which affected every part!
No human being but ourselves for miles; and no sound heard but the pulsations of the great Pacific!*

Richard Henry Dana

To young men contemplating a voyage,
I would say go.

Joshua Slocum

He that will not sail till all dangers are over must never put to sea.

Thomas Fuller

That's what a ship is, you know - it's not just a keel and a hull and a deck and sails, that's what a ship needs.

But what a ship is, ... really is, is freedom.

Captain Jack Sparrow

Men go back to the mountains, as they go back to sailing ships at sea, because in the mountains and on the sea, they must face up.

Henry David Thoreau

My soul is full of longing
For the secret of the Sea,
And the heart of the great ocean
Sends a thrilling pulse through me.

Henry Wadsworth Longfellow

To be successful at sea we must keep things simple.

Pete Culler

Sailors, with their built in sense of order, service and discipline, should really be running the world.

Nicholas Monsarrat

Whenever I find myself growing grim about the mouth...then, I account it high time to get to sea as soon as I can.

Herman Melville

Ah! What pleasant visions haunt me
As I gaze upon the sea!
All the old romantic legends,
All my dreams come back to me.
Sails of silk and ropes of sandal,
Such as gleam in ancient lore;
And the singing of the sailors,
And the answer from the shore!

Henry Wadsworth Longfellow

I never was on the dull, tame shore,
But I loved the great sea more and more.

Barry Cornwall

Build a deck high up on it, so it can carry you across the misty sea.
I'll provision it with as much food and water and red wine as you will need to satisfy your wants. I'll give you clothes and send a favoring wind blowing from your stern, so you may reach your own native land unharmed, if the gods are willing, the ones who hold wide heaven, whose will and force are mightier than my own.

Calypso to Odysseus - Homer

Mackerel skies and mares tails, soon will be time to shorten sails.

Old Sailors Proverb

Oh! for a soft and gentle wind,
I heard a fair one cry,
But give to me the roaring breeze,
And the white waves heaving high;
And white waves heaving high, my boys.
The good ship tight and free;
The world of waters is our home,
And merry men are we.

Sailors' Song

Fortune brings in some boats that are not steered.

William Shakespeare

Moons waxed and waned,
the lilacs bloomed and died,
In the broad river ebbed and flowed the tide ships went to sea, and ships came home from .
And the slow years sailed by and ceased to t

Henry Wadsworth Longfellow

The days pass happily with me wherever my ship sails.

Joshua Slocum

I don't worry about the storms,
I am learning to sail my own ship.

Louisa May Alcott

It's out there at sea that you are really yours

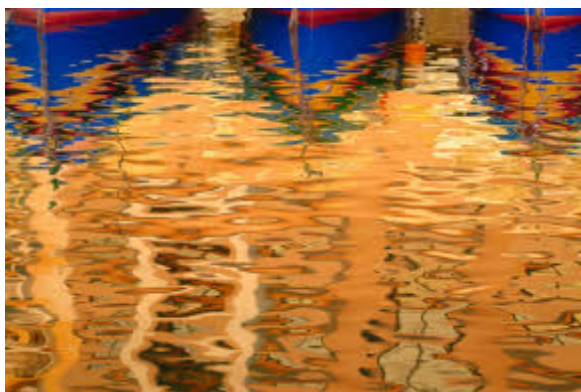

Vito Dumas

The sea is the same as it has been since before men ever went on it in boats.

Ernest Hemingway

The sea appears all golden Beneath the sun-lit sky.

Heinrich Heine

Land was created to provide a place for boats to visit.

Brooks Atkinson

*Ships are the nearest things to dreams
that hands have ever made.*

Robert N. Rose

*Bards and prophets tune their mystic lyres
While listening to the music of the waves!*

Sarah Josepha Hale

Rivers are roads which move and which carry us whither we desire to go.

Blaise Pascal

*The surface of the Earth is the shore of the cosmic ocean...
The water seems inviting.
The ocean calls.*

Carl Sagan

It's not the towering sail, but the unseen wind that moves the ship.

Proverb

*The sea has never been friendly to man.
At most it has been the accomplice of human restlessness.*

Joseph Conrad

At sea, I learned how little a person needs, not how much.

Robin Lee Graham

Tut! The best thing I know between France and England is the sea.

Douglas William Jerrold

*And as great seamen, using all their wealth
And skills in Neptune's deep invisible paths,
In tall ships richly built and ribbed with brass,
To put a girdle round about the world.*

George Chapman

*Skill'd in the globe and sphere,
he gravely stands,
And, with his compass, measures seas and lands.*

John Dryden

*Out of sight of land the sailor feels safe.
It is the beach that worries him.*

Charles C. Davis

For one thing, I was no longer alone; a man is never alone with the wind — and the boat made three.

Hilaire Belloc

*I would not creep along the coast but steer
Out in mid-sea, by guidance of the stars.*

TS Eliot

*Every morning the sun rose cloudless from the sea, and set again at night in the sea, in a flood of light.
The stars, too, came out of the blue one after another, night after night, unobscured, and twinkled as clear as on a still, frosty night at home, until the day came upon them.*

Richard Henry Dana

It's always ourselves we find in the sea.

E.E. Cummings

Without patience, a sailor I would never be.

Lee Allred

Like the undulating motion
Of the deep, majestic ocean,
When the whispering billows glide
Smooth along the tranquil tide ;
Calmly thus, prepared, resign'd,
Swells the independent mind.

James Montgomery

The wind and the waves are always on the side of the ablest navigator.

Edmund Gibbon

I can't change the direction of the wind, but I can adjust my sails to always reach my destination.

Jimmy Dean

They who plough the sea do not carry the winds in their hands.

Publius Syrus

Wind is to us what money is to life on shore.

Sterling Hayden

A sailor's joys are as simple as a child's.

Bernard Moitessier

Not all who wander are lost.

JRR Tolkien

*There are three sorts of people;
those who are alive, those who are dead,
and those who are at sea.*

Anacharsis

A man is never lost at sea.

Ernest Hemingway

As for myself, the wonderful sea charmed me from the first.

Joshua Slocum

*My spirit descends where the day-spring is born,
Where the billows are rubies on fire,
And the breezes that rock the light cradle of morn
Are sweet as the Phoenix' pyre.*

James Montgomery

*What fairy-like music steals over the sea.
Entrancing our senses with charmed melody?*

CB Wilson

No pessimist ever discovered the secrets of the stars, or sailed to an uncharted land, or opened a new heaven to the human spirit.

Helen Keller

... the best pilots have need of mariners, besides sails, anchor and other tackle.

Ben Jonson

Sometimes we are lucky enough to know our lives have been changed, to discard the old and embrace the new and run headlong down an immutable course.
It happened to me... on that summer's day when my eyes were opened to the sea.

Jacques Yves-Cousteau

Full ten thousand miles behind us,
And a thousand miles before,
Ancient ocean waves to waft us
To the well remembered shore.
Newborn breezes swell to send us
To our childhood welcome skies,
To the glow of friendly faces
And the glance of loving eyes.

Charles Mackay

Twenty years from now you will be more disappointed by the things that you didn't do than by the ones you did do.
So throw off the bowlines. Sail away from the safe harbor.
Catch the trade winds in your sails.
Explore. Dream. Discover.
Mark Twain

From clime to clime the wanderer loved to roam.
The waves his heritage, the world his home.
James Montgomery

When I forget how talented God is, I look to the sea.
Whoopi Goldberg

To sail is necessary.
Gnaeus Pompeius Magnus

Now - bring me that horizon.
The last line from Pirates of the Caribbea

I must go down to the seas again, to the lonely sea and the sky,
And all I ask is a tall ship and a star to steer her by,
And the wheel's kick and the wind's song and the white sail's shaking,
And a gray mist on the sea's face,
and a gray dawn breaking.

John Masefield

Quotes on Ships and the Sea
Mankind's Wisdom on Seafaring from Christopher Columbus to
Captain Jack Sparrow

*Is it the draw of unknown lands, the rhythm of the waves, the thrill of adventure? Or is it the sea, something about the sea itself, which draws a sailor to his task?
Confronting the raw elements of life sharing in her triumphs and her sorrows in ways no land-lubber will ever know, the sailor knows that his skill, and his ability to move with the pulse of the sea, skies and wind are all that stand between himself and eternity.
I have never known an ex-sailor.
It would be an anomaly.
There are sailors and there are land lovers.
And there really is nothing in between.*

Richer Resources Publications
Creating Rich Resources for You

